Two Gals Burned.
Howard's steam gin, two and a half miles south of Reagan in Falls county, burned at three o'clock yesterday. Loss about twenty-five hundred dollars; no insurance. McCaleb & Co.'s gin, two miles west of Bremond, burned on Monday with thirty-six bales of cotton. Loss $8,500; no insurance.

Coal.
My winter supply of coal is now coming in and those who intend using it will please hand in their orders as early as convenient.
Respectfully,
oct22dtc J. H. HUTCHINSON.

The Phonograph.
Capt. Aleck McCulloch and Major M. C. Park will start this morning on another tour with the phonograph. They will visit Mount Calm, Spring Hill, Dresden, Milford, Chambers, Waxahatchie, Red Oak, and Lancaster, in the order in which the places are named. From Lancaster they will probably go to points in Northern Texas. Two or three weeks is the time they expect to occupy on the trip.

Central Military Institute.
Col. Pope, Superintendent, is now prepared to receive and board students at the Barracks. 1wd&w

It is Sad.
Indeed to chronicle the death of little Hattie Hopkins. She died at seven o'clock yesterday morning after an illness of four days. The remains were interred at five o'clock in the afternoon. Mr. and Mrs. Hopkins are still in Brownsville, on the Gulf coast, and we understand are unable to leave that place being under quarantine. The telegraph has carried them intelligence in the last six days of three deaths in their family, two daughters and a son. Our entire community sympathizes with them most deeply in this great grief. The other two children are recovering and it is believed are out of danger.

For Sale.
A fine lot of young mules by John Robinson. Six miles South of Waco. d&wim.

The Dignity.
Of Justice Massey's court was just a little ruffled yesterday morning. The justice was sitting behind a pair of gold spectacles, listening with all due patience to the argument of an important case, when a good-natured looking country boy appeared in the court room, which is on the ground floor, and addressing himself to the court, said with confidence as he tossed two nickels up and down, "Gim me a couple of five cent cigars." He had evidently gotten into the wrong place, and when the justice, lawyers, litigants and witnesses all looked up with such horror on their faces as Dickens would have rejoiced to describe, he discovered it and hurried out, his face covered with blushes.

It is True.
That every one who wishes to ride or drive with any degree of pleasure, ed invariably purchases his saddle and harness from S. W. Mabry, the man "old reliable" in this line in Waco, Tex.

He got Left.
He had felt a strange fever in his throat, produced by the dust and stepped into Bismark's for a prescription and sat down at a table to rest. He liked the German people so well that he took a half dozen doses in the course of an hour ere he thought of his rural home and his little babes and wife, and saw the necessity of, (in the language of theology) stirring his stumps. Meantime, his team of oxen had moved up to Franklin street and turned down that street towards the west. With one wild stride and asking every one about his team, he learned it had gone up Austin street when he took that thoroughfare as if he had a contract to carry the mail, up to Tenth street, when he came back down Franklin, sending a cloud of dust before him that made every one think the equinox was coming. He reached the market just as his team having passed that place, turned down Mary street. Down he tore down Mary to Third when he heard his team had been seen going down Fourth, and a cloud of dust and yelling curs proclaimed his coming. Unfortunately, instead of turning down Mary, he kept Fourth street. Just as he got two blocks away his team doubled on him again. It was at the corner of Third street when he came tearing down Second, and in the middle of Second as he came tearing up Third. Then a man was seen approaching the Square and panting and swearing under his breath, and as he was starting home on Fourth street with a neighbor, after his team which he now supposed had gone before him, one of the oxen was lying asleep and the other quietly standing by his side chewing an old pantaloons leg on Third.

We Observed.
Yesterday morning seated upon our sanctum table, a long, lean and cadaverous specimen of the genus grasshopper with one horn gone and the other carried half away in some hurricane, with biceps flexor incubitus sadly emaciated, and bearing altogether a discouraged appearance. He was evidently an avian courier come to spy out the land, but will carry away no grapes on his shoulders as the spies of Gilgal. He is too late and the astronomers of his tribe must have made some miscalculation or their almanacs have got things mixed. He evidently was becoming convinced of that for as we observed him he was attentively perusing our exchanges, wading through Martin's vernacular in the Sherman Register, deciphering a paragraph about heavy frosts in the north part of the State, and as that meaning of the paragraph began to ooze out of the redundant phraseology the big tears dropped from his meek eyes in profusion. Too late, too late, thank goodness, you old pest, avian! depart, begone, thou son of desolation, we cried, and there was a leap that left a streak of brown and yellow in the air, and part of the select committee is on his road back to bring in a minority report.

Dead.
At the family residence, on South Third street, of scarlet fever, Tuesday, October 22, at 1 o'clock p. m., Rose Scott, eldest daughter of R. B. and Alice Parrott, in the third year of her age.

Open Again.
The Suspension bridge has been put in such shape that the lower tramway may be used this morning to cross wagons upon. It will probably take two months or more to make all the needed repairs. The workmen will first repair the upper side, leaving the lower one open for passage until it is finished, so that hereafter the bridge will not be closed. Mr. George B. Dutton is supervising the work. Mr. Prather informs us that the company had intended making these repairs some months ago, and before the busy season commenced, and had contracted with Mr. Griffith, the engineer, who built the bridge, to supervise the work, but owing to the appearance of yellow fever in the South that gentleman failed to come, hence the work was delayed. Since the bridge closed there has been quite a blockade of freights, the transfer lines being unable to cross it at the ford, and consequently much inconvenience has been experienced, but, as at least half the bridge will be kept open from now on, these troubles are done away with.

Here and There.
If Waco audiences are as impressive as those of San Antonio, Houston and Dallas, the audience at the opera house Thursday night will laugh two solid hours. The fun, says the papers of the cities named, is of such a character that ladies particularly may turn out and enjoy it.

The Greenback rally last evening was rather a slim affair. There had been no concert of action, most of the larger Greenbackers being absent, and consequently only a few more than a baker's dozen were present. They didn't rally much.

Jack Frost has paid the low places heretobore, a visit, every morning since Friday last.

Mr. Mark's house in North Waco took fire from a defective flue just after dark last evening and came near burning down. The fire was extinguished before any great amount of damage had been done.

The S. W. A. N. club give their second semi-monthly reception at their call this evening, and a pleasant time is anticipated. The Italian string band will furnish music for the occasion.

Mr. J. H. Hutchinson, the Avenue stove dealer, says he regards the EXAMINER as a very excellent journal, and is always glad to see it appreciated by others, but when men show that appreciation by walking into his store and slipping his copies in their pockets before he has opportunity to read them, he isn't glad a bit.

Voters will bear in mind the fact that every man must cast his ballot in the precinct in which he lives, else it cannot be legally counted. If there are two voting places in the precinct he may choose between them, voting at either one, but under no circumstances, unless he is a regular Andrew Jackson democrat, must he vote at both. This last precaution is probably superfluous.

"What's de five cents I sent you to market wid," is a question that, since the advent of the flying jinnies—has been asked to the great consternation of small darlings.

A communication, dated South Boque, Oct. 21st, and signed "One of the Committee," is not printed because the writer's name does not accompany it.

Mr. John Jones had his hip fractured by a fall on Monday evening. He was carried to his room on Third street, and well cared for by a physician and other friends. The accident will confine him to his room several days.

We are glad to learn that the sight of Dr. White's eye is only somewhat impaired and not entirely destroyed as was supposed. It is hoped that after a few weeks it will be almost if not quite as sound as ever.

John Snowwhite, a butcher who formerly lived in this city, got into a difficulty with John Walker at Marlin last Friday and shot him with a derringer, but fortunately missed his aim, and no harm was done. John has left Marlin.

Marlin shipped two hundred bales of cotton yesterday. The shipments from that point this month will probably reach three thousand bales.

Wanted.
Sewing girls. Apply at Bogart's Shirt Factory on Austin street. oct24dtc

Street Drumming.
The cities of North Texas continue to discuss the matter of street drumming. In the Dallas Herald of the 18th appears the following:

The Herald has ever denounced street drumming as a nuisance and one that is calculated to do trade generally more harm in the end than good. The council took this view of the matter and passed an ordinance prohibiting it, yet in the face of all this, several firms have employed men to represent them on the streets. Yesterday evening the police arrested some five or six of these characters for a violation of the ordinance. They all gave bond.

Personal.
We are glad to see that our genial young friend Matt Cooper who, for two weeks past has been sick with fever, is now up and again at his post in J. H. Brown's store.

Miss Nellie Hubert, of Bryan, who is remembered in our social circles as a beautiful and most accomplished young lady, arrived Monday evening and will spend some weeks with the family of Judge G. B. Gerald.

Mr. Nat A. Haven, of Houston, and traveling agent for Texas of the "Dixie" and "Standard" cotton ties, is in the city and will to-day call on our dealers for their orders. These ties were patented in 1875 and are now being manufactured in large quantities by the United States Iron Company of Youngstown, Ohio.

A Young Thief.
The thirty dollars recently stolen from a little son of Dr. Carroll has been recovered. A negro girl 11 years of age, named Jane Center has been arrested as the thief. Police officers Craig and Scott worked up the case. They were told by Henry Williams, a negro man in the employ of Mayor Sturgis, that he had seen the girl leave the house on the day the money was stolen, and by a negro woman in the employ of Mr. Frazier that she had seen the girl bury something under a bridge on Third street on the same day. The money was found under the bridge. The girl had a preliminary trial before Justice Morsey yesterday afternoon and was held to bail in the sum of two hundred dollars. She is in jail.

Mr. Wells and His Church.
Editor Examiner,
Please announce that the fourth quarterly conference for this station will be held next Thursday evening, at 7 o'clock at the College chapel. All the church officers are expected to attend.

I am obliged to the EXAMINER for its sympathy with me in my suffering. I have never suffered so much in the same time as for the last seven days. I am but little if any improved. Drs. Wilkes and Willis are trying to remove some Hemorrhoids that have given me trouble and great inconvenience for the past ten years. Heaven grant them success and me relief.

I regretted disappointing the congregation Sunday night, but could not leave my room.

How precious to me the memory of our dear friends, whose kindness will be cherished while my heart is warm. How enchanting the hope of reunion in our beautiful home above. Heaven grant the living wisdom and grace to live and die so well and nobly. Yours truly, M. H. WELLS.

Funds for Firemen.
The cotton firms whose yards were protected by the firemen on Sunday last, have stepped forward in a very substantial way to show their appreciation. Mr. W. A. Patterson yesterday handed Chief Jones, twenty-five dollars, to be used by the Department as it may see proper. Fifty dollars cash accompanied the following brief note:

WACO, Oct. 21st, 1878.
Maj. Wiley Jones, Chief Waco Fire Department.
MR. CHIEF:—We respectfully ask you to add the enclosed to the funds of the Department.

E. P. WOODWARD & CO.
And the following explains itself:
Maj. Wiley Jones, Chief Waco Fire Department.
DEAR SIR:—Herewith enclosed please find check for fifty dollars. We take pleasure in testifying to the efficient work of the gallant members of the Department; and tender our thanks to the members, each and all of them who performed efficient service in saving cotton in great danger of taking fire on Sunday last. With many thanks for continued prosperity and increased usefulness, we remain,
Yours truly,
E. H. ROBERT & CO.
By H. C. COLYER.

The Department, Chief Jones informs us, will use these funds toward purchasing an alarm bell for the engine house.

Well-Toned Systems.
Systems toned and renovated with Hostetter's Stomach Bitters are most effectively defended from disease. That supreme invigorant soon overcomes that distressing feebleness consequent upon ailments which impair the life and relax the muscles. Vigor, appetite, sleep return to the wasted frame, every physical faculty gains greater activity under the tonic influence. Nor is this all, for the Bitters have a most genial and healthful effect upon the system, and induce a healthy condition of the blood, which is the natural effect of the increased bodily vitality which they produce. Nervous symptoms disappear in consequence of the use of this medicine, and the evil consequences sure to result from a premature decay of the physical energies are averted. Dyspepsia, liver complaints, rheumatic ailments, urinary and uterine irregularities, neuralgia and many other disorders, conditions of the system, are remedied by the Bitters. oct24dw
